

Get MammoPlus
Schedule your appointment online at MercyHealth.com

SCHEDULE YOUR MAMMOGRAM

Laser treatments helping dog injured by trap

LASER TREATMENTS AFTER TRAP INJURES DOG

A VIEW FROM ABOVE

ICE CAVES

WEATHER

- f
- 3
- in

Laser treatment helping dog injured by trap

Phil Dawson, WZZM 12:38 p.m. EST March 3, 2015

(Photo: Phil Dawson)

- CONNECT
- TWEET
- LINKEDIN
- COMMENT
- EMAIL
- MORE

GRAND RAPIDS (WZZM) -- A dog who was badly hurt after getting his leg stuck in a trap continues recovering.

A Grand Rapids family worked for weeks to catch Chuck, eventually luring him inside with bacon and eggs. Since then, he's been getting regular cold laser treatments at Kelley's Animal Clinic.

Vets say since last week Thursday, Chuck is already 75 percent healed and he'll only get better.

WZZM 13 NEWS
Pit bull recovering after being caught in steel trap

"He will probably fully recover," said veterinarian Dr. James Kelley. "He may have a pretty-good-sized scar over this area, but I think the hair will cover most of it, and you probably won't see it."

Dr. Kelley also said Chuck will be available for adoption.

"Oh, Chuck is a neat dog! Oh, absolutely a neat dog. I would have him in my house, but I already have too many dogs."

You can visit Kelley's Animal Clinic's Facebook page at this link for more information.

WZZM 13 abc

MORNINGS ARE BETTER

4:30 - 7:00 am